

ABSTRACT

A method for preventing or treating obesity and obesity-related complications in a subject involves a monotherapy with a Cox-2 inhibitor or a combination therapy with a Cox-2 inhibitor and a conventional weight-
5 loss agent. Also described are therapeutic compositions comprising a Cox-2 inhibitor and a conventional weight-loss agent. Pharmaceutical compositions and kits for implementing the present method are also described.